To The Editor:

The Cuban American Community look with dismay at the recent announcement that Senator Jacob Javits would "speak for Humanity" at the November 4th, rally at the United Nations.

We ask the Senator why he didn't speak in the name of the thousand of Cubans of various origins, including many Arabs and Jews, who are incarcerated in Cuba? Of course, the Senator is trying desperately in the last minutes of his campaign to attract the Jewish vote, that is understandable. However, the Senator forgets that more than 50,000 Cuban-American as well as many friends of the "Cuban-cause" would most likely cast their ballots against Mr. Javits because he neglected to "speak for Humanity" when he went to Havana.

The Cuban-American constituency of New York State cannot accept Mr. Javits as their Senator because he has never approached, consulted or showed any interest and respect for our anxieties and aspirations.

The New York Times has endorsed Mr. Javits but fortunately the N.Y. Times' vote is not as demolishing as my vote and the vote of thousand other Cubans who would go to the polls on November 5th.

The Cuban-American vote will defeat the Senator and we are proud to forecast that Mr. Javits' career ended in Cuba..... not New York.
