

73 SB-020-0

January 8, 1973

Robert L. DuPont, M.D.
Washington, D.C. 20001

Dear Dr. DuPont,

There has been so much discussion and some controversy about the safety and efficacy of the acetylmethadols, particularly levomethadyl, that it seems likely that a discussion of the present data should be of interest to the participants at the next methadone conference.

Enclosed is a summary and a list of participants. Each has already agreed to participate, should it be possible to include this subject in the 1973 program.

Good luck in your program.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry