Dear Max,

It was kind of you to think of me, but I know very little about the University of Vermont. It is among the newer schools situated in one of the most beautiful parts of the East. Skiing in the winter and swimming in the summer are within twenty to thirty minutes of the city. It is well located for Boston and there is an active change of professional talent between Burlington and that city. As Albany achieves greater prominence in medicine, perhaps the relationship will shift to New York.

I recollect that George Brooks was active in that area and perhaps you would write to him for more information. Perhaps the best source would be still be Milt Greenblatt who seems to know everyone in that part of the country.

Incidentally, in the same mail I received a letter from your student, Clive Tonks, who is writing with regard to the EEG changes in menstruation.

Perhaps we will meet in the forthcoming meetings in Tarragona. In the meantime, my best personal regards.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
