Dear Jon:

While attending the DDC conference for the development of a psychophysiology microthesaurus, it became apparent that such a brainstorming session can produce the necessary first approximation to the psychopharmacology microthesaurus. Rather than wait for Dr. Welt or for a subject listing to appear "by accident", would you consider contacting the DDC staff and arrange a joint meeting to produce a microthesaurus?

Working with DDC may be helpful because they have experience, and seem willing to update such documents by trial.

Such a conference could be held in Washington early in the Fall or before the ACNP meetings; or, a pilot meeting held in the Fall and a final session at ACNP.

As chairman, Welt may be the logical choice.

If this interests you, the DDC chap in charge of such work is Mr. Paul T. O'Day, TIS, Arlington Hall Station, 525-5800, Ext. 785.

Good luck.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M. D.
