Great Neck, New York

Dear Paul,

As you requested, I have called Dr. Gerald Klerman, Associate Professor of Psychiatry, Yale University School of Medicine and Clinical Director of their Research Institute. He would be pleased to take part in the meeting February 19, 1968.

I discussed with him a format of the psychopharmacology of antidepressant and/or anti-anxiety agents, in which he would make some general statements and then answer questions which I would pose first; and then followed by questions from the floor.

I would suggest you send him a formal invitation from the Society and I am sure that he would respond favorably.

As he is an old friend, I would be pleased to arrange to have him come down earlier to my home, if the Program Chairman is not able to make the customary arrangements.

My best regards.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
