Dear Chuck:

I have reread your paper "A Technique for Predicting the Effect of Treatment" with much interest. I hope that you will get a discussion during the APA Meetings.

With regard to the suggestion of publishing this in an EEG-type journal, I wonder if it would not do better in a journal related more to psychopharmacology? Could we not look upon the EEG data merely as representative of a class of information? Your methods may be equally applicable to other quantitative data.

If so, I would suggest that you submit this to Psychopharmacologia or Psychophysiology, as two journals which are specifically of interest to scientists with my background and for whom I believe your article would be helpful.

I would be pleased to have you visit with us at your leisure. Have fun in your presentation.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
