Dear Seymour,

Separately I am returning the Miras' Manuscript. So far as I can tell, both the subject and the extent of the descriptions are useful additions to our literature. These sections, devoted to biochemistry and animal pharmacology, are interesting, and seem to my untutored eye, to be well written and probably complete.

I would suggest you consult one of the principal botanical chemists for a definitive evaluation, and perhaps Dr. Mechoulam of Israel would accommodate you. Another nominee is Dr. Daniel Efron of NIMH, an experienced pharmacologist who may also be able to advise you.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
