

February 9, 1969

Dr. Perry Black
Johns Hopkins Hospital
Baltimore, Maryland

Dear Dr. Black,

Enclosed are the page proofs of the section of the forthcoming book, chapter 10.

There are few typographical errors and these are marked. There are some problems in the way the text reads, and after re-reading this on Friday, Saturday and today, I reacted with some concern. If the volume is to have wide distribution (and I hope it does), the chapter reflects the editors more than myself.

Hence, the changes and the returns noted. I am confident that you will recognize the idiosyncracies involved; but then, the article is written under my name and not that of the unknown editors. Please accept each of the changes, as marked, even if the usage is improper by the standards of the Johns Hopkins Press.

Thank you for your cooperation, and my best regards.

In the event these suggestions are untenable, the restriction of my letter of November 17, 1968 still holds.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry

mf/