Dear Mort:

In reading Thorpe's review article in the November issue of Psychosomatic Medicine, the awareness of some significant omissions led to the enclosed "Letter". The memorandum is short, but may be augmented by the data if the Editorial Board wishes.

These few months have been most exciting as I have had the opportunity to establish a research laboratory according to a model which developed at Hillside. The support of Washington University has been magnificent and we now have some wards staffed; are establishing laboratories in EEG, pharmacology and psychology; a fine library; and a small computer center. It will be a pleasure to take you through the new center on the occasion of your next visit to the Midwest.

My best regards.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
