Dear Ms. Brandt,

Your request for information regarding the psychiatric phenomenon of multiple personalities was sent to me for reply. This organization focusses its research interests on biological treatments in psychiatry, and we have little experience with the problem of multiple personalities.

Our recollection is that the classic study "Three Faces of Eve" was written by fellow biological psychiatrists Corbett Thigpen and Hervey Cleckley of Georgia. The book was published in 1957 by McGraw Hill and should be in your library. I commend it to you.

Good luck in your studies.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
