Dear Lew:

I was very grateful and pleased with the gift which you so thoughtfully selected for me. Over the years I have received a variety of presents, but this volume is among the most appropriate and most useful. I am grateful to you and the staff of Hillside for your kind thoughts.

During these past few weeks as I have become increasingly involved with the many details of my new position, the emotional feelings of the past many months have assumed a lessened significance, and, I believe, their more appropriate levels. I find that my experiences at Hillside have given me a background to assume this role. On one occasion after another, when presented with novel questions, I have thought back to the solutions and recommendations which would have been appropriate at Hillside, and with minor modifications, have adopted them here.

My best regards,

Sincerely yours,

MISSOURI INSTITUTE OF PSYCHIATRY
