Dear John:

At the end of last year, we discussed the possibility of carrying out some similar studies at this computer center to those that you had established in Kansas. In the interim, we have devoted most of our energies to establishing our EEG analysis programs and now that these are in operation, I have decided to once again look at the problem of the use of computers in psychiatric diagnosis problems.

We have read your articles, and are now assessing mathematical models. It may be helpful for our staff to go over the programs that you have written to carry out your work with Leo Hollister. Can you make available to us a print-out of your present programs or those which were useful for the 1620? In the event that these have been supplanted by later programs useful for your present machines, we should be able to understand these as well.

Thank you very much for your cooperation.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M. D.
