Dear Jonathan,

As I have discussed with you, Dr. Freedman has suggested that I make an application to the Health Research Council of New York for support in the research programs at the New York Medical College. We have submitted an application for a Career Scientist Award. They have asked for letters of recommendation and I would be grateful if you would submit one on my behalf.

The application form indicates that the letters of reference "Should contain a complete appraisal of the applicants research ability, originality, professional qualifications, personality, and moral character. The letters should be submitted directly as confidential communications to the Health Research Council of the City of New York." The application also indicates that "If possible, twenty copies of each letter of recommendation would be appreciated."

I would be most grateful for your efforts in answering the requests of the Health Research Council.

Many thanks.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
