Dear Clay,

In an introduction, the important designations would include:

Professor of Psychiatry, New York Medical College,
1966-

Research Professor of Psychiatry and Director,
Missouri Institute of Psychiatry, St. Louis,
1962-1966

Member, National Institute of Mental Health,
Committee on Clinical Drug Evaluation, 1961-1965

In describing my interests, I think my emphasis has always been on the relation of changes in brain function and behavior, especially those changes induced by psychiatric therapies, including convulsive therapies and psychoactive drugs. With regard to this symposium, I have been interested in the neurophysiology of hallucinogens since 1953, and have studied not only LSD, but a wide variety of anticholinergic hallucinogens in some detail.

I hope that you have a few minutes to call me to discuss the kind of presentation which would be most fruitful for the group.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
