Dear Roger,

I have read your two pre-prints with interest, and look forward to the discussions in San Juan. I am left with a question. Is a quantitative method for blood levels of circulating THC available? Your suggestion of the use of such a measure is based, if I understand the text, on the need to assure the investigator of central effects of cannabis, and to provide an independent quantitative estimate.

In addition to blood levels, have you considered direct CNS measures, as in quantitative EEG?

Thanks again for the preprints.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
