Dear Dick,

I must, once again, congratulate you on a fine piece of work. It is a pleasure to be associated with this effort. Once I started to add some additional information and references, I took the liberty of making some small changes in the text and have had it completely retyped.

The original has been sent to Joe Wortis.

Three copies are enclosed, as well as your original. If there are any additional corrections I am sure you can make them in the galley.

I look forward to hearing from you from England and trust that your work there will be as rewarding as you anticipate.

I have also taken the liberty of sending copies to Drs. Bird, Sigg, Martin, Brill and Levine - each of whom has either been cited in the credits or has been instrumental in providing the funds for this study.

My best regards.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
