Dear Dr. Jacobsen:

Thank you very much for the initial supply of naloxone 20 mg tablets. Our first two patients are now taking 100 mg a day and the second group of three patients will start on Monday. If all goes well, we will need an additional supply by the 1st of October.

Concurrently we have carried out our acute naloxone experiments using the 0.4 mg per cc concentration. Naloxone 2 mg effectively blocks 20 mg of heroin. I am anxious to continue this work and will soon need an additional supply of injectable naloxone, hopefully at a higher concentration. I would be grateful if an additional supply could be made available. Please call me when you have some information.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
