Dear Miss Peereboom:

I have received a letter of inquiry from my former co-worker, Dr. Turan Itil of the University of Missouri, requesting information regarding his report the "Treatment of Chronic Psychotic Patients with Combined Medications" which was presented at the 1966 meeting of the CINP. In your response to his question, you indicate that this report was read as part of Symposium VI of the CINP.

This is incorrect. Symposium VI was dedicated to anticholinergic mechanisms in man and animals, and another presentation by Dr. Itil was invited for that symposium. It was presented in abstract in the Symposium VI abstracts; and is included in the Elsevier volume. The report cited above was read as part of free communications and is not being published in the special volume dedicated to the anticholinergic problem.

If at all possible, therefore, consideration should be given to include the complete text of the enclosed report "Treatment of Chronic Psychotic Patients with Combined Medications" in the Proceedings of the CINP, as published by Excerpta Medica, as it is not germane to the volume I am preparing through Elsevier.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
