

August 11, 1972

Chairman,
Internship Selection Committee

Dear Sir:

Mr. Heywood Zeidman is known to me as a summer research trainee. During the summer of 1969 and again in 1971, he participated in the drug studies of this department. I found him to be intelligent, enthusiastic, cooperative and highly motivated. He was enthusiastic about the effects of drugs on brain functions and worked hard.

I have seen Mr. Zeidman frequently during the past few years and have tried to answer his many questions about the special problems of clinical psychopharmacology. I believe he will be a dependable and active intern and should approach his work with skill and energy.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry

MF:ig