

October 23, 1971

Dr. G. Dolce and K. Offenloch
E. Merck
Darmstadt, Germany

Dear Drs. Dolce and Offenloch,

I very much regret not receiving your telegram, for I did have the chance to return to Frankfurt, but only for a day. I am interested in visiting your laboratories, for when I was in Ingelheim, I enquired about your programs, and was told that they were among the best in Germany. It is probable that I will be in Europe again before the end of the year, and I should be pleased to accept your invitation at that time.

In the interim, I am enclosing a preprint of a progress report written a few months ago about our ongoing program; and a reprint which describes our theoretical views. Perhaps, these will be of some interest.

My thanks for your kind invitation and my regrets that the communications were unsuccessful.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry