Dear Lou:

In this time of annual holiday rejoicing, it is fitting and proper that we look back at this past year and our many works. During these last eighteen months, a research Institute has been created. Your foresight in the creation of the building and your interest, collaboration and many considerations during these months have made this project possible. I am most grateful for your help, your advice, and mostly, your patience - for these have given life to the Institute.

For me, I look upon your leaving with sadness, for we are losing a warm supporter. My new associates join me in wishing you the best of success and happiness in your new ventures; and good health and many years to enjoy the well-earned respect of all of us.

My personal best wishes for the New Year, and many, many more.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M. D.
Director
