Dear Dan,

It was good of you to write about the reception of the symposium in Denver. I have been puzzled by the many questions that seemed argumentative and I left the meetings feeling that somewhat more heat than light had been generated.

With regard to publishing a summary of EEG and drug effects, the American College of Neuropsychopharmacology has planned a review of many of the changes in this field during the past decade. Among the subjects to be covered are the neurophysiological effects and I am already committed to writing an expanded review of the material presented in Denver for presentation in December and publication in 1968. Perhaps this volume will serve the need you suggested.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
