Dear Bill,

It was kind to invite my participation in the North Pacific psychiatric meetings in Vancouver-- and I would have been honored to participate. I have been away at meetings for more than three weeks, and this is my first opportunity to answer directly. My secretary tells me that the program is completed, and I regret this, but thank you for the honor of the invitation.

At the ACNP I met Jerry and we discussed our mutual friends. He is well, seems to keep an active interest in teaching and research, and has maintained the leadership of the Psychiatric Research Society with Hy Denber (who also was at the meeting and is busy flying his own plane about the country).

Again, my thanks for your thoughts-- and I would be delighted to visit in the future.

My best regards.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
