Dear Dick:

I have just read an article which refers to a manual distributed by IBM, called "Medcomp: Handbook for Computer Applications in Biology and Medicine" which was prepared by T. Sterling and S. Pollack. The note indicates that this manual was prepared under Public Health support and it is now currently being distributed by IBM.

Do you know anything about this? If it is available can you provide a copy for us to see?

Many thanks.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
