Dear Dr. van den Noort:

I am pleased to submit this reference on behalf of Dr. Jon Heiser. I have known of his research interests from his publications, and came to know him much better during my recent stay at Irvine as a member of the visiting faculty.

In his writings and our discussions, he has impressed me as innovative, logical, and careful. His studies of physostigmine and propranolol are significant additions to medical therapy. These developments were based on careful clinical observations, logical inference, and extensive pharmacologic knowledge. In his discussions of his present interests in computer diagnosis and information processing for psychiatry, he shows an active interest in an important and developing research problem.

He is a reserved, pleasant, and responsible person, who was an interested and enthusiastic participant in my seminars.

I am pleased to recommend him; although I would be even more pleased if he were to consider a position as a member of this University faculty.

Sincerely,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
