Dear Jonathan,

It gives me great pleasure to send you a draft copy of our manual of digital computer methods for EEG analysis. This represents our first major technical report of our experiences.

We have elected to include our programs and to provide the knowledgeable reader with sufficient data so that with conventional digital computers the various programs should be able to be modified and run easily. I am taking the liberty of sending copies to some of the members of the Clinical Committee who were interested in the development of this program. As I mentioned to you, we are not sure about the best way of presenting this publicly. I would be grateful for your recommendations as to whether this document has some value beyond its availability from our laboratory.

Thank you for your recommendations.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
