Dear Bob:

In the course of our studies of hashish users in Greece, I came across a monograph in German, "Die Haschischsucht" published in 1939 by Dr. M. G. Stringaris. Not finding any translation, I imposed on a friend to do the work, and I am taking the liberty of enclosing the translation of the first chapter. The text is 66 pages with 33 additional pages of case material.

Dr. Stringaris is alive in Athens.

Do you think there is a market for a translation of this text? If yes, do you wish to handle this?

I appreciate your advice.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
