

December 4, 1972

R
Dr. Hanus Glosz
Department of Psychiatry
University of Indiana School of Medicine
Indianapolis, Indiana

Dear Hanus:

I found the session Wednesday most stimulating, and congratulate you on your enthusiasm. I hope you will not be intimidated by the administrative difficulties and proceed with your studies.

Your reception by Dr. McGlaughlin was most cordial, and I am confident that they will support your work if they can.

I did not offer to undertake the heroin challenges, because I am moving my laboratories from the city and now lack facilities to do studies of opiate antagonists. (One factor in my decision was the prolonged arguments this work engendered - work which arouses passions, and makes sensible men intemperate).

Should you wish to undertake the direct assessment of the narcotic antagonism of propranolol, my associates will assist you in any way they can.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry

MF:ig