Dr. W. Grey Walter
Burden Neurological Institute
Stoke Lane,
Stapleton, Bristol

Dear Dr. Walter:

Your recent letter and essay on "Which Way is Up" is a delightful and commendable exercise. In these laboratories, we have consistently tried to maintain the neurophysiological convention that electro-negativity is above the base line. When we embarked on evoked potential studies, we assumed that this point of view was most natural and so have maintained this convention. My co-workers, Drs. Turan Itil and Takumi Ikuta concur in the continuation of this convention.

My best wishes for the New Year and I look forward to a continuation of our discussions regarding EEG quantification.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Director
