Dear Mr. Wassall,

Convulsive therapy (ECT) is, by reputation, not popular in Switzerland ever since the leading psychiatrist, Professor Paul Kielholz of Basle made it known that he could successfully treat all his patients without its use. However, he is retiring, and there may be a relaxation of attitudes.

I cannot refer you to anyone in Geneva, but can suggest some excellent clinicians in that small country:

Professor Jules Angst, Psychiatrische Universitätsklinik Zurich, Postfach 68, CH-8029, Zurich.

Dr. Markus Gastpar, Psychiatric Clinic, Wilhelm-Klein-Strasse 27, Basel 4025.

Dr. J. Fleischauer, Cantonal Clinic of Psychiatry, CH-4915, St. Urban/LU.

Each of these men are internationally known as skilled in the treatment of patients with depressive disorders.

In addition, the dean of clinicians in the treatment of depressive illnesses is Dr. Roland Kuhn (Psychiatric Clinic, CH-8596 Munsterlingen). He may be retired by now, but if he will see your employee, I think she would be in good hands.

Good luck.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
