

April 25, 1960.

Dr. A. Russell Lee,
68 Greencroft Gardens,
Hampstead,
London, N.W. 6, England.

Dear Russ:

Some months ago I wrote regarding the possibility of my being in Europe this summer. My present plans provide for my wife, Martha, and I to be in London during the five day period from June 28 to July 2. I should like very much to be able to spend an evening with you and would be pleased if you would set aside some time during these days.

While I have a strong aversion to mixing business and pleasure, I believe I would like to visit the Maudsley. I know of no one there directly, and before asking some of my friends from England who are now here, I wonder if you are sufficiently acquainted with the staff to be able to help me arrange a short visit?

Since my last letter, the changes in the hospital which I hinted at have continued at a rapid rate. I think when you return to the States, a visit to Hillside should make you proud to be an alumnus.

My best regards.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.

MF:JB