Dear Jon,

Following our conversation, I thought some more about the question of Joe Tecce. Enclosed is a reprint of one of our recent reviews of the pentothal EEG response. It shows a diphasic response which we have interpreted along classical physical lines, the operation of a spring mechanism. In our study of amobarbital and dextroamphetamine, a similar curve was in evidence, although we chose to disregard the initial changes and focus on the long term effects.

My best.

Sincerely,
