Dear Isadore,

Surely, the computer representatives should be represented. I would suggest Digital Equipment Corporation, who make the PDP series of computers, Scientific Data Systems who may be interested in getting into this field, and IBM.

It may be too late for many of these companies, but perhaps something can be done by phone.

My interaction has been with IBM only and I do not know the DEC or SDS representatives. Since both instruments are probably represented at the Brain Research Institute, perhaps a member of the organization committee could make the initial representation. I will be glad to call IBM and make inquiries here.

With regard to the availability of the exhibit hall on September 12 at the earliest, I am concerned that this will make the demonstration very difficult. I will inquire of IBM as to the feasibility of this schedule and let you know.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
