Dear Leo:

I am writing to tell you that the symposium on Anticholinergic Hallucinogen at the Society of Biological Psychiatry has been formally set for Saturday afternoon, May 1, at 2:30, at the New York Hilton Hotel.

With the time involved, I am asking each of the participants to present their material in 15-20 minutes, thus allowing 5 to 10 minutes of discussion for each paper.

In order to stimulate the discussions, I am enclosing abstracts of the reports of the other participants and as soon as I have their papers will send you copies.

In order to focus the discussions, I will take it upon myself to open the discussion of your report, but would like to ask you to open the discussion of Dr. Gershon's report. I am enclosing a preliminary draft of his paper as I have received it from him and would like you to read it and be prepared to open the discussion.

Would you join me as my guest for lunch at the New York Hilton Hotel at noon on May 1? This would provide an opportunity for us to get better acquainted and may provide for a more stimulating afternoon. I will send you more details as to the luncheon at a later date.

I trust that your moving is coming along smoothly. My best regards.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M. D.
Professor of Psychiatry
