

March 21, 1964

Dr. William P. Wilson
Professor of Psychiatry
Duke University Medical Center
Durham, North Carolina

Dear Bill:

Congratulations on a magnificent job of editing! Am embarrassed, that the tenor of most of the report is in the nature of reviews of the literature and evaluations of the subject matter. It seems that both George and I undertook to present from observations and original data, and hoped thereby to exemplify the application of EEG in psychiatry rather than reviewing the subject. I am in the midst of writing a review of EEG in human psychopharmacology, and had I a clear image of the final product, this review should logically appear in your book.

I will review the article from my laboratory, and if there are any major corrections I will send them to you within the next few days. Otherwise, I will wait until the galley proofs appear.

Do you wish me to send all the manuscripts back to you, or on to another member of the panel?

Again my congratulations on a fine job.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Director

MF/jb