Dear Martin:

Your recent letter was most welcome, both George and I are looking forward to visiting Newcastle and would like to do so before the CINP meetings. The meetings begin on August 31 in Birmingham. For this reason, we would like to be back in Birmingham on Saturday evening. We would like to visit Newcastle, therefore, on Friday, August 28. Is this satisfactory for you?

We would be very pleased to have Dr. John Roy join us, even for a period as short as fifteen months. Based on the information you have given me, I am sure we can satisfy his salary requirement, and can be more specific once I have a clear picture of his actual curriculum vitae. There is also no problem about the trans-Atlantic fare, as we have funds available for travel awards for visiting scientists. However, the present regulations of the American Medical Association require that all physicians holding clinical responsibility or teaching have completed the ECFMG examinations. This is one requirement which we are unable to disregard and I am taking the liberty of enclosing a copy of those regulations and the time ~~and~~ place for examinations in the event that Dr. Roy would still be interested.

Thank you very much for your recommendation, and we both look forward to visiting you.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
