Dear Sir:

Earlier this year I made a number of purchases. Some of these were returned and when we were billed initially the sales tax was charged, when we were credited, the sales tax was not credited. I sent a note to this effect probably in March, and since that time there has been a difference of $2.98 in the bill which you have submitted to me.

When I left St. Louis I balanced by accounts and again wrote a note to indicate that the $2.98 represented an added sales tax which should have been deducted.

I would appreciate your checking your records and correcting what I believe is an oversight.

Many thanks.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
