Dear Mr. Henderson:

We have recently completed a small study regarding the treatment of narcotic addicts using a new narcotic antagonist. The compound is of sufficient potency to be of great clinical interest. Unfortunately, the compound is no longer available because of the expense of production since the patent is held by a small pharmaceutical corporation.

If, after reading this report, it is of interest to you, I would appreciate your calling me regarding the necessary releases from the institution prior to public description.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
