

June 5, 1971

Dr. Joseph Buckley
School of Pharmacy
University of Pittsburgh
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dear Dr. Buckley,

A recent issue of the Blue Sheet brought to my attention your studies of new psychotropic drugs. For many years we have been attempting to define the clinical activity of psychotropic drugs by their effects on the scalp recorded human EEG in volunteer subjects. Recently, we have applied these methods to the study of novel, number compounds from a variety of manufacturers with some success.

I am interested in your methods and would be grateful for a copy of any general description of your methods and the types of compounds for which these methods have been most successful.

Many thanks.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry