Dear Dr. Bookman:

I regret that a satisfactory parenteral form of Ro 5-3350 does not exist, since we are embarking on a project in which we will have standards applicable to the analysis of this compound.

As I indicated during my visit, I am particularly interested in evaluating new compounds in order to determine the population of choice for clinical efficacy. Perhaps when you or your associates find another compound that is in the very early clinical screening we may have an opportunity to review it with you.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
