

June 13, 1966

To whom it may concern:

Mrs. Sheryl Avruch was appointed as research technician at the Missouri Institute of Psychiatry (Department of Psychiatry of the University of Missouri School of Medicine, St. Louis) on June 23, 1966. In this capacity she served until June 30, 1966 under my direct supervision.

Her initial assignment was in the editing of manuscripts, preparation of psychiatric bibliographies and in the maintenance and expansion of our reprint files.

Mrs. Avruch is a pleasant, affable, cooperative and delightful assistant. She carries out her duties and assignments with celerity and enthusiasm. Soon after she joined the staff, I suggested that she review the technical literature of the changes induced in the electroencephalogram by alcohol. She did this remarkably well and subsequently went on to review other aspects of the EEG literature. This has culminated in a series of reports, each of which is definitive.

Her leaving this Department was occasioned by the reassignment of her husband to a position in the East Coast. I would recommend her highly for a similar position, or any other for which she may feel she is qualified.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
