Dear Barbara,

I very much regret receiving your letter of May 25th indicating that there might be some difficulties at the Cornell installation. I have finally moved my whole operation to Stony Brook, and am now in the process of reorganizing my laboratory. As my call to you a few months ago suggested, I will need some help with the 1800, but am not sure yet how best to manage this. There are some update programs which require professional help, but as I understand from Donald, there is no urgency with these. I am also interested in expanding our programs.

Some time during the summer I should have a clear image of what I need, and would like to be able to contact you then. From your letter, I presume you would not be unwilling to come to work at Stony Brook to test out programs, although I imagine you would prefer to do most of your work in New York. Thank you for letting me know.

My best regards.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
