Dear Dieter:

I have received the announcement from Fritz Freyhan concerning the plans for the next C.I.N.P. meeting.

As I understand the program, the first day will be devoted to a series of invited discussants, the second to discussion groups, and the third for free communications.

It seems that the most appropriate time for there to be a discussion group on EEG and Human Psychopharmacology would be on Tuesday. I believe that both you and I would prefer that this group meet during C.I.N.P. rather than before or after. There is a question, however. We had some of the participants of the special session held in Munich, who indicated an interest to meet again, who are not official members of C.I.N.P. Would it be possible to extend an invitation to a few of such members if the meeting were held on the second day of C.I.N.P.?

I look forward to discussing our work with you again next summer. My best regards to our friends in Erlangen.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M. D.
Director
