Dear Miss Warner:

Your recent letter has raised a number of interesting questions regarding pre-payment of the fare for persons interested in joining the staff of the Institute. I cannot answer your question at the moment, but shall present it to the Board of Directors of the Institute later in the month and shall be in a position to answer your question by the first of the year.

Regarding accommodations, it is customary for us to provide temporary accommodations for workers joining the Institute from a distance. These accommodations are suitable for short periods of stay and all of our staff has found accommodations in the neighborhood of the Institute within a few weeks.

I should like to be able to answer your principal question, but in the interim, if the position is still of interest to you, I should like to have the names of two referees, and a handwritten curriculum vitae, and a small photograph.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M. D.
Director
