Dear Dr. Eddy:

Dr. Freedman wishes me to thank you for your kind comments in your recent letter to him. We are pleased to enclose original glossy prints of the four figures which we included in the report on naloxone.

As we have described in the report, naloxone appears to us to be one of the more interesting new compounds and we strongly recommend its continued study. Unfortunately, the supplies have been curtailed for a variety of reasons which seem to us alterable. We will appreciate your efforts in making this compound available.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry
