

January 24, 1972

Elmer Gardner, M.D.
Division of Neuropharmacology
Food & Drug Administration
Rockville, Maryland

Dear Al,

It was a pleasure to hear your rational presentation before the ACNP, and I do hope that your approach will bear happy fruit, in establishing feelings of cooperation between the investigators, industry, and the Administration.

The advances in EEG quantification have been rapid. Much of the information has not yet appeared in press, although Jon Cole just published a study classifying fenfluramine as a sedative compound (Psychopharmacologia 22:369-383, 1971). I am enclosing some preprints and reports of our recent studies, and trust that these may interest you and your associates.

My best regards.

Sincerely yours,

Max Fink, M.D.
Professor of Psychiatry