MATCH DAY 1992

Newsday / Don Jacobsen

Jubilant students, including Alan Roga, center, with papers in hand, after getting assignments

The Day of the Doctors

By Laura Muha

STAFF WRITER

At a minute before noon, the tension in the air at the Health Sciences Center at Stony Brook was thick enough to cut with a scalpel.

On one side of the room, 94 medical students, most of them clad in jeans and sneakers, were joking nervously with one another.

On the other side of the room, 94 envelopes were spread out on a table, the students' fates sealed inside.

"I was really all right until about a half-hour ago," Alan Roga, 24, of Queens was saying as he nervously awaited word to pick up his envelope. "Then it started to hit. I'm waiting to find out where I'm going to spend the rest of my life."

Or at least the next four years.

Yesterday was what was known as "Match Day" for Roga and other fourth-year medical students across the country — the day when they would learn whether the hospitals where they wanted to do their residencies also wanted them.

Few had slept the night before. Some looked as if they hadn't slept in days. Only a very few were confident, having been told by their hospitals of choice that their chances of being accepted were good.

Others weren't so sure.

Roga, for instance, applied to 15 residency programs, which he ranked in order of preference. At the same time, directors of the residency programs ranked him on their lists of applicants. The lists were sent to the American Association of Medical Colleges in Washington for tabulation by computer. If Roga's first-choice program also wanted him, there was no problem. But if it wanted other students more, he would move to his second-choice program. And so on, until there was a match.

"It reminds me of the NBA draft," Roga said.

Just which program that was, Roga didn't want to say, for fear of jinxing it. But it was apparent a few moments later when Dr. Pierce Gardner, associate dean of academic affairs, gave the students the go-ahead to open the envelopes. In the midst of the pandemonium that followed, Roga slit his envelope with one finger and peered at the paper inside.

"YES! YES! YES!" he yelled, thrusting his fist triumphantly into the air. It was followed seconds later by the cork from a bottle of champagne. Roga had been accepted to his first choice: Winthrop-University Hospital in Mineola.

Gardner, standing to one side, looked almost as pleased as the students who were hugging each other and cheering. The more students who got accepted to their first-choice program, the better it looked for the medical school, he explained. And this year, Stony Brook looked very good indeed.

More than half the students were accepted by their first-choice program. Eighty percent were accepted by one of their top three. Only three were not accepted at any of the programs on their lists, and they were able to find places in programs that had extra space.

Gardner was especially pleased that more members of the class than ever before had been accepted by nationally prestigious residency programs. Afterward, most of the students agreed that waiting for college acceptances or even medical school acceptances didn't even begin to compare with the anxiety they felt waiting for the results of their residency applications.

"There's nothing else like this," said Dave Portelli of Woodbury, Rogga's roommate. "It's like musical chairs. The music stops and everyone gets a chair to sit in — but some people have problem chairs. That's what I was afraid of — getting one of those wobbly chairs."

As it turned out, he needn't have worried — he was accepted by his first choice, Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, in a program that combines internal and emergency medicine.

School of Medicine
Office of the Dean

Dear Class of 1992:

It is with special affection that I salute you on the occasion of your graduation from medical school. You and I came to the School of Medicine at Stony Brook at the same time. Like most of you, I found the first year here the most difficult of my life. We were overworked, lectured at continuously, evaluated against old standards, given impossible assignments. But, at the same time, we had our eyes opened to entirely new vistas, exciting challenges, and open-ended opportunities for personal growth and fulfillment. Above all, however, we survived!

The second year was better. We began to feel a little more comfortable, a little more worthy of the trust we had been given, a little more confident that we could, after all, gain some mastery over this incredibly vast array of material we were expected to know. And we also began to get a glimpse of what it was really all about: Keeping people well and helping sick people feel better.

Then came year three and we really began to catch our stride. We began to be accepted as honest-to-God members of the team. We were actually participants in real decisions affecting real people. And we began to feel that maybe the decision to come to Stony Brook was, in fact, the right decision after all. We even started thinking of ourselves as maybe, just maybe, worthy of the confidence that others had in us.

And now it's the fourth year that we have been here and things are really beginning to buzz. It's finally becoming clear what we really want to do with the opportunity we have been given. Our talents and limitations are in better focus. The full range of possibilities is there waiting for us to make our own choices. And the true meaning of professionalism, the magnitude of the obligations we are called upon to assume, is becoming palpably clear.

You might be tempted to argue that here the similarity between us ends. After all, most of you are about to leave Stony Brook and I am not. But, I prefer to believe that you and I will continue our intertwined connections with this place. I hope Stony Brook will remain very much a part of you and you a part of it. Certainly, the school will continue to need our help, our support, and our affection.

I wish finally to express my gratitude to all of you for your patience and your partnership in helping make Stony Brook an even better place than it was when we came here.

My best wishes for all you dream to achieve.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Jordan J. Cohen". The signature is fluid and cursive, with a large initial "J" and "C".

Since most of you know me as a person of few (if any) words, I will limit my comments to:

GOOD LUCK

. . . and let others speak for me:

Keep always bright by using the desire to serve that all of you expressed when you sought admission to the study of medicine.

—Kenneth M. Lynch

Medicine is a science of uncertainty and an art of probability.

—Sir William Osler

The purpose of human life is to serve and to show compassion and the will to help others.

You will not succeed.*

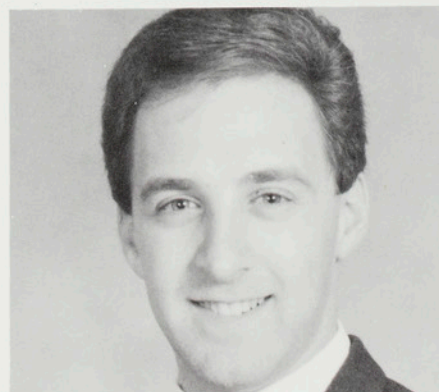

—George Bernard Shaw

Look wise, say nothing and grunt.

—Sir William Osler

Age four. The age at which I decided to be a doctor. I later gave up cigars out of consideration for fellow preschoolers—my first step toward becoming an advocate of preventive health measures.

I am alone in the night,
Dreaming of sleeping swallows,
Far off cities and blue bells.
The stars watch over me in peace,
And I converse with them,
I tell them of my life.
I have no pain in my blood,
And no grief in my gaze,
Nor anger in my words.
I don't know if I am happy,
But at this moment
I can sing a song which is my own,
And that's enough.

Congratulations

You have satisfied preliminary requirements for receipt of your M.D. degree.

Your diploma will be mailed to you upon final certification by the Office of Academic Affairs of completion of your degree requirements.

It's finally here—the 1992 edition of Kronos. A lot has happened over the last four years; these pages are an attempt to record some of that history.

This edition is the product of many hours of hard work. We would like to thank several people, without whom production of this yearbook would have been impossible: Jennifer Lane,

Ann Marie Alino, and Dipti Shah, who put in countless hours when called upon.

Special thanks to Mary Jean Allen, Burke Kincaide, Al Jordan, Rosalie, and Tammy, who are by now sick of our frequent visits to the Office of Academic Affairs. Extra special thanks to Shirley, who we consider an honorary member of the yearbook staff.

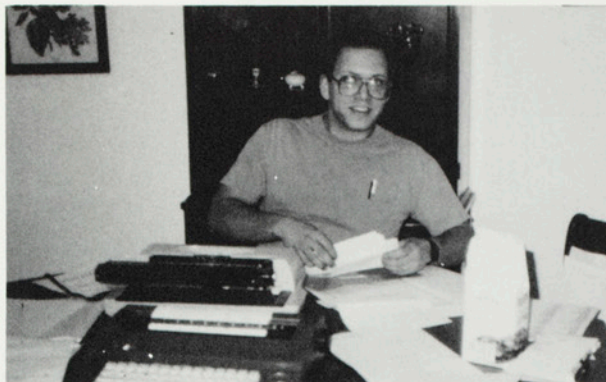

Thanks to Media Services and Mary Lou for use of their photographs. Thanks to all who sent in photographs!

Finally, we thank Steven Lerner. He made this yearbook fun. What more can we say?

Best wishes for the future.

Colophon

Kronos 1992 was printed in offset lithography by Herff Jones Yearbooks.

It was printed in a limited edition of 200 copies with 184 pages.

The paper stocks used throughout the book are 100# Eurogloss and 100# Bordeaux.

The cover is a Leather Tex non-woven material in Smokey Blue with Cordova grain. The elements are embossed in silver foil, with silver paint used on the spine.

The book is Smyth sewn in 16 page signatures, trimmed to 8 1/2" x 11", rounded and backed with head and foot bands.

In addition to the black ink used throughout, there is one flat of four-color.

All captions and body copy are done in 10 and 12 point Helvetica. Headlines are 48, 42, and 36 point Helvetica.

OATH

I do solemnly swear by that which I hold most sacred, that:

I will be loyal to the profession of medicine and its humanitarian principles.

I will use my power to help the sick to the best of my ability and judgement;

I will abstain from harming or wronging any person by it.

I will not be so intrigued with the science of medicine that I will lose sight of patients as people.

I will attend to the suffering of my patients with compassion and will use my knowledge to minimize that suffering.

Whatever I see or hear professionally or privately which ought not be divulged I will keep secret.

I will hand on precepts, lectures, and all other learning to students of medicine and to those who will succeed me.

I will strive for the improvement of my science and my art, knowing that medicine may be imperfect but that its progress is constant.

I make these promises solemnly, freely and upon my honor.
